COTTON MARKET.

Quotations furnished by Miller & Co., members of New York Stock and Cotton Exchanges and the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, 1333 F street northwest, New York, July 9.—The market was not very active, but it was evident that the time for short selling of abandoning very optimistic ideas as to the course of prices during the season has not yet been rea Co.- The theory that the market having Trading was slow at first and the market looked up in advanced steadily for a number of days tired, but prices, after easing off, worked up, in was on technical conditions entitled to a spite of general, and in some cases quite heavy quick and healthy reaction, was borne rains in Texas. There were high temperatures in out by the course of prices to-day. The some sections of the beit east of the Mississippi. It set-back since 2 o'clock yesterday after-noon was just about what was due. This noon was just about what was due. This having come to pass, I now think that largely discounted; in fact, the necessity of absoquate yield, and there is a likelihood of some flaws developing, which would give bulls the upper hand. Good buying in the late dealings resulted in a rise sufficient to attract outside interest, with signs of a broadening market, without more moderate tempera tures than were the case to-day, some being 103 in interstate commerce report on the Harri-man lines was made public to-day, al-all soft spots, and we recommend that operation

The Safest Investments

Are those that do not depend upon the financial responsibility or the stability of any individual or corporation. First deeds of trust (mortgage) notes liberally secured on good real estate in the District of Columbia constitute "gilt-edge" investments. These are the only kind we make and supply to investors. They bear interest, payable semi-annually, at the rate of Five per cent per annum, and may be had of us in amounts from $500 and upward at par and accrued interest. Send for booklet, "Concerning Loans and Investments."
